MAIN FINDINGS

- The main policy challenge facing Denmark in 2007 was a slowdown in economic growth and the low employment participation of immigrants and second-generation immigrants. The European Social Fund addressed these challenges through training and education and the integration of people furthest from the labour market, lifelong learning, improvement of vocational education and training (VET), the development of Continuing Education and Training (CVET) and the development of innovation training/approaches in all forms of education.
- The interventions were particularly focused on young people, older people, people with disabilities and migrants, with evaluations showing successful targeting.
- ESF funding broadened the scope of existing activities but the ESF also supported local and regional innovations in the delivery of human capital development activities.
